

DADA

- Dada and dadaism

History of Dada, bibliography of dadaism, distribution of Dada documents

- International Dada Archive

The gateway to the International Dada Archive of the University of Iowa Libraries. A great resource for information about artists and writers of the Dada movement

- DaDa Online

A source for information about the art, literature and development of the European Dada movement

- Small Time

Neumerz Dada Society in Chicago

- Mital-U

Dada-Situationist, an independent record-label for individual music

- Tristan Tzara on Dadaism

Excerpts from “Dada Manifesto” [1918] and “Lecture on Dada” [1922]

Dadart

The site provides information about history of Dada movement, artists, and an bibliography

▪ Cut and Paste

The art of photomontages, including works by Heartfield, Höch, Hausmann and Schwitters

▪ John Heartfield

The life and work of the photomontage artist

▪ Hannah Hoch

A collection of photo montages created by Hannah Hoch

▪ Women Artists–Dada and Surrealism

An excerpted chapter from Margaret Barlow's illustrated book

Women Artists

▪ Helios

A beginner's guide to Dada

▪ Merzheft

German Dada, in German

▪ Dada and Surrealist Film

A Bibliography of Materials in the UC Berkeley Library

- La Typographie Dada

D.E.A. memoir in French by Breuil Eddie

- New York Avant-Garde, 1913-1929

New York Dada and the Armory Show including images and bibliography

- Excentriques

A biography of Arthur Cravan in French

- Tristan Tzara, a Biography

Excerpt from François Buot's biography of Tzara, L'homme qui inventa la Révolution Dada

- Tristan Tzara

A selection of links on Tzara, founder of the Dada movement

- Mina Loy's lunar odyssey

An online collection of Mina Loy's life and work

- Erik Satie

The homepage of Satie

- 391

Experimental art inspired by Picabia's Dada periodical 391, with articles on Picabia, Duchamp, Ball and others

- Man Ray

Internet site officially authorized by the Man Ray Trust to offer reproductions of the Man Ray artworks